Dear Sirs,

I undertake that until such time as a binding contract of sale is signed and exchanged, neither I nor any professional advisor acting on my behalf, will intimate to any third party notification of my proposed purchase of or interest in the subject business or to disclose or otherwise make available any information supplied to me by the vendor.

I confirm that I will not, whether directly or through others, for twelve months following this agreement, endeavour to entice away from the business or employ or offer to employ any person who is during that period employed by the business.

I confirm that I will not, whether directly or through others, for twelve months following this agreement, endeavour to entice away from the business any person who is a customer of the business during the period in which any negotiations in connection with the sale take place.

I confirm that upon written request, I will return any information received, together with any copied documents in my professional advisor's possession.

I understand that this undertaking is to be governed by and be construed in accordance with English law. I understand that any breach of confidence will be vigorously and fully pursued.

Signed:
